*Dominican Republic: (Information as of 4:30 AM EST)

Former defense minister Captain Francisco Rivera Caminero left the Dominican Republic last night aboard the frigate Mella following the swearing in of his replacement, army Colonel Enrique Perez y Perez.

After the ceremonies President Garcia Godoy told the press that the crisis was "being resolved in its essential points." Although the President also favors the removal of both the army and air force service chiefs, he has pledged not to make any additional changes in the armed forces' command provided they remain completely obedient to the provisional government and absolutely apolitical during the electoral campaign which begins on 1 March.

The general strike which began on 10 February virtually paralyzed life in Santo Domingo yesterday. The strike now has the open support of former president Juan Bosch, most of the country's left-of-center political parties, student organizations, and labor federations. In a public statement Bosch cautioned that the strike must not be violent, but reiterated the objective of the strike--all the military leaders ordered out of the country by Garcia Godoy on 6 January must go.

It remains to be seen whether the strike leaders will accept the President's agreement with the military and for that matter, whether Garcia Godoy himself will live up to his promises.

Indonesia: Sukarno is making further progress toward re-establishing a unitary administration under his own leadership.

The Supreme Operations Command (KOTI), which the army briefly tried to build into a "super cabinet," is to be replaced shortly by an organization of more limited scope. Spokesmen for both Sukarno and the army have separately announced that changes will be made public within the next few days and that the primary mission of the new organization will be "to crush" Malaysia.

Authoritative sources continue to forecast that the President's "political solution" will be announced soon. The minister of information explained on 10 February that the "solution" covers all areas of national life and not just the future of the Indonesian Communist Party (PKI) as is popularly assumed. He cited the impending change in KOTI as one aspect.

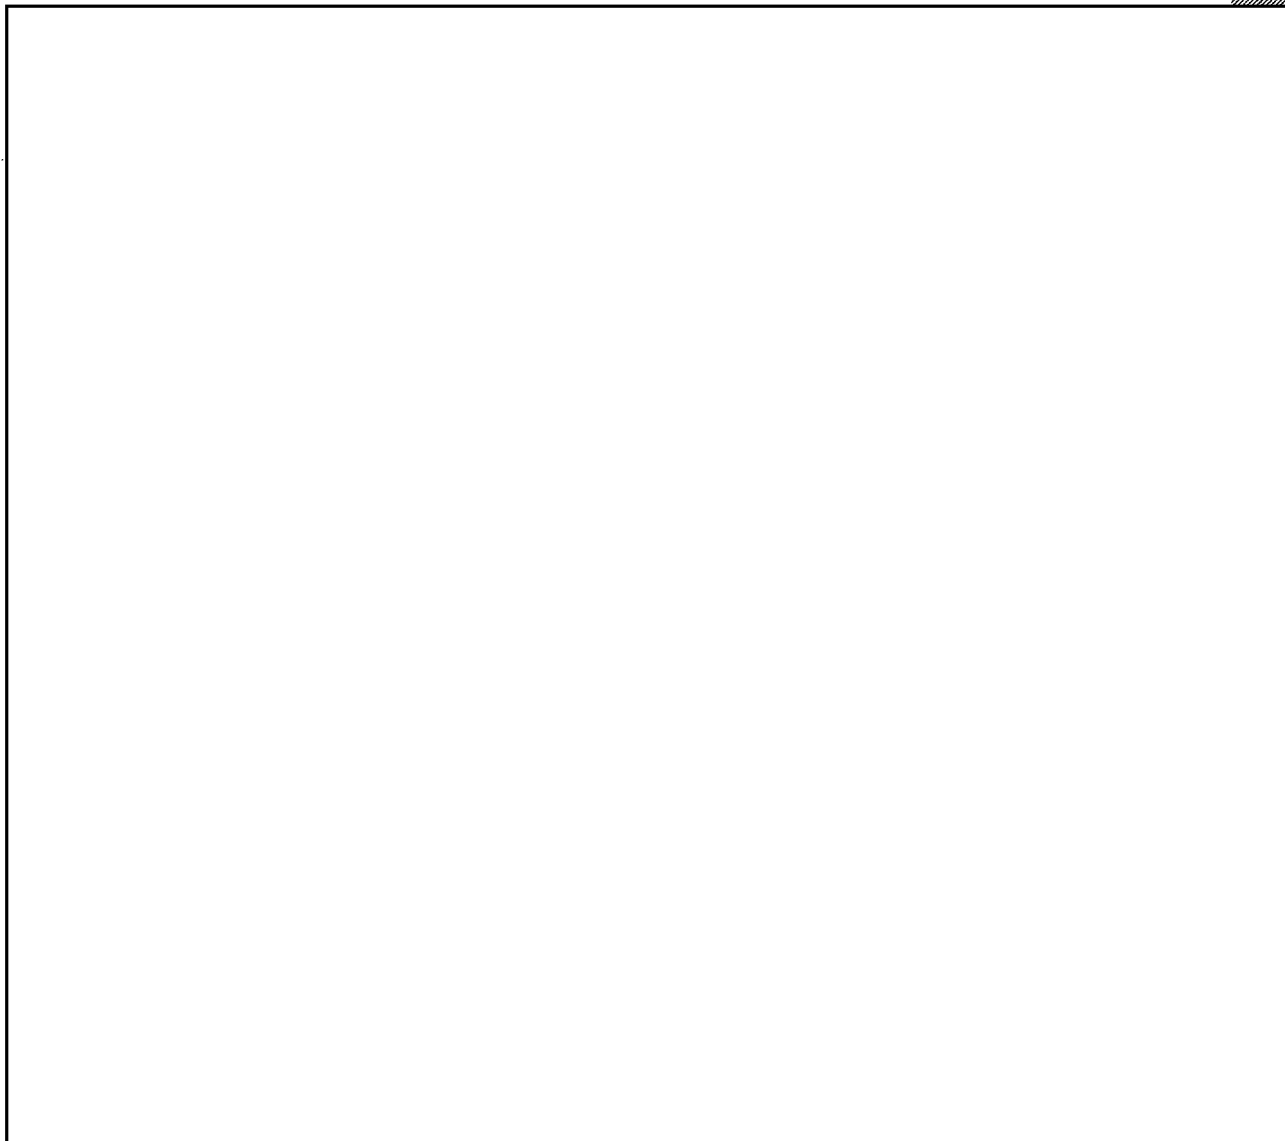

According to a cabinet minister, Sukarno has succeeded in arranging to have the forthcoming trials of participants in last fall's coup held secretly rather than publicly as the army had earlier announced. The trials are scheduled to begin on 14 February. Army attempts to use the trials as a means of further discrediting the PKI are now likely to be considerably curtailed.

NOTES

USSR: Aeroflot, the Soviet civil airline, has taken another step forward in the expansion of its international air operations by scheduling regular air freight services on some of its foreign routes. Weekly cargo service using AN-12 transports has been inaugurated between Moscow and Paris, and regular service is to begin this month on the routes to Pakistan, Iran, Ceylon, and Indonesia. Aeroflot's fleet of AN-12s--a medium range cargo aircraft with a carrying capacity of 10-12 tons--now numbers about 67 aircraft.
